Excerpt: .instantaneous intelligence of the most distant occurrences. We shall, consequently, now be able to keep the bulk of our army in hand at a few central points of our railway system, knowing that, on the first appearance of a hostile fleet, we can launch them to the spot with the certainty of their arriving more rapidly than men can be landed from the ships. The immense carrying powers of our railways have been well tested by the two Brighton Reviews , when, in addition to accommodating without stint all the private excursion traffic of the principal holiday in the year, the Brighton Company carried 16,000 troops from London to the coast between five and eleven o'clock in the morning. This was by only one line of railway; but there are no points on the south coast, from the mouth of the Thames to...
