Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Confederate Soldier His Motives and Aims: An Oration Ladies and Gentlemen, Comrades and Fellow-Citizens: It is with deep emotion that I rise to address you to-day. When I look over this vast concourse of the brave men and the noble women of the South - representing every one of the eleven sovereign States once associated in the Southern Confederacy - and when I look into the faces of the veteran survivors of that incomparable army that fought with such magnificent valor and constancy for four long years under those tattered battle flags, now furled forever, I am overwhelmed at once by the dignity and the difficulty of the task assigned me. There is such a vast disproportion between the powers which the occasion demands and those which I possess, that I should not dare to essay the task but for my confidence in your generosity and forbearance to a speaker who at least can say: I too loved the Lost Cause and marched and fought under the banner of the Southern Cross. There are two unique features which must arrest the attention of every observer of this scene to-day. The first is the fact that all this pageantry, all this enthusiasm, is a tribute to a lost cause. The second is the fact that we assemble under the victorious banner to pay our reverend homage to the conquered one. A stranger coming into our midst and observing our proceedings might suppose that we were met here to celebrate the foundation of a State, or to acclaim the triumph of armies, or to exult in the victory of a great cause. But no! Nine and...
