Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Arms-and the Men: Intimate Personal Glimpses of Delegates, Attaches, and Attaches and Personages at the at Ton Conference on the of Armament and Pacific, and Far Eastern Problems President Harding stood on the threshold of the room where he was to receive the great New Year s throng and, turning to a friend, placed one hand on his shoulder and the other on his arm. A happy New Year, he said with that boyish smile, as he gazed long into the eyes of the friend. And yours, Mr. President, came the reply, as the friend motioned toward the waiting line outside, already has begun! It was a happy day for the President. More than 6,000 persons, the records say, shook his hand that day and he, forgetful of the physical energy it consumed, gave himself up to pure enjoyment. It was, in its way, the typical Harding gesture. The crowd wound its way in a long ribbon through the White House grounds, along Pennsylvania avenue past the State, War and Navy Building, and down Seventeenth street, to within sight of those buildings where the Conference holds its sessions. It was a symbol. The President is the connecting link between that ribbon of humanity which stretches to the confines of the Union and that potent conference. The greatness of Harding is the greatness by which he chose a greater than himself to hold office under him. None denies the high mentality of Charles Evans Hughes, Harding least of all. Harding was big enough to give him the highest cabinet position. Harding welcomed the Conference in simple terms and then stepped aside. To Secretary Hughes was given...
